Borland or Turbo C/C++ can be a great development tool... if you want to study and create programs for legacy systems of the 1990's such as DOS. One of the most inconvenient features of using such tools, and most especially within source code developed, is the use of libraries that are incompatible with modern system (unless an emulator is used), most notably the use of conio.h, a C header file ...

The C programming language has a set of functions implementing operations on strings (character strings and byte strings) in its standard library. Various operations, such as copying, concatenation, tokenization and searching are supported. For character strings, the standard library uses the convention that strings are null-terminated: a string of n characters is represented as an array of n ...
