

uncovering student ideas in pdf

Uncovering Student Ideas in Science, Volumes 1-4, provide a set of grades K-12+ formative assessment probes that link key concepts in science to commonly held ideas described in the research on learning. These probes can be used to reveal the variety of conceptions, including misconceptions, naive ideas, partially correct or incomplete ideas, and scientific ideas students bring to their learning.

To begin, it is important to distinguish blended learning from other forms of learning that incorporate online opportunities. First, blended learning is distinguished from that of enhanced classroom or fully online learning experiences (see Fig. 1). However, it is not clear as to how much, or how little, online learning is inherent to blended learning.
