Understanding Science

Scientists are everywhere, unravelling the secrets of the universe. Science is complex and multi-faceted, but the most important characteristics of science are straightforward: Science focuses exclusively on the natural world, and does not deal with super-natural explanations.

Yoga as a science of living is also an art. Yoga, therefore, may be defined as the science and art of optimum living. Yoga has the capacity to move, either side by side with medical science or independently. This is because Yoga has a sound system of etiology, diagnosis and pathogenesis of disease.
